

Moore Republican Women NEWS

March 8, 2019

Greetings! We have so much information about MRW and the political scene that we are expanding our newsletter to two issues per month! Here you go...

John Tamny a hit at March luncheon

John Tamny, Director of the Center for Economic Freedom at Freedomworks, was our guest speaker at the well-attended March MRW luncheon. One attendee raved, "He's even better to listen to than Larry Kudlow!" (President Trump's Director of the National Economic Council)

His remarks focused on the economy, capitalism vs. socialism, and much more. Mr. Tamny has written several books, signed copies of which he gifted to people at the lunch. (If you'd like a signed, free copy, please let Pauline Bruno know asap. Tell her how you want it addressed when he signs it.) He has promised to return in the future to update us on how things are going in the Trump economy.

MRW Book Club meets Monday afternoon

We're talking about "Grateful American: A Journey from Self to Service" by Gary Sinise

We have a great time discussing books - along with the state of our world! Refreshments provided. Join us on March 11, 2019 at Republican HQ in Olmsted Village at 4:00 p.m. All are welcome!

March 4 fundraising results

As always at our luncheons, we raise funds for the good works we do in the community and to support our political goals.

This month, the Basket raffle earned $290 and Kay Kish won it. Split the Pot earned $178 for the Club; Karen Littlefield won $88.

We are growing!

We are delighted to welcome back Blanche Woodruff as a “new” member. Please also welcome new members Susan Swick and Corina Albert.

Freedomworks teaches us to Tweet!

How do we reach millennials and younger voters with our conservative message? They rarely (if ever) read the newspaper. They're not going to get our message via television's Mainstream Media. They are surrounded by liberal viewpoints without any pushback. We need to meet them on their ground - namely via social media.

On March 4 at Filly & Colts Restaurant, Freedomworks held a special free training session on how to use Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. The local conservatives who attended learned a lot, opened their own Twitter accounts - and even sent out some tweets! Good work is being done by people throughout the conservative community.

Next MRW luncheon: April 1

Save the date for a fun occasion to welcome in Spring!

April 1
12:00 Noon
PCC Members Club

Watch for more details coming soon!

MRW and the Wreaths Across America website

Mariann Benway is creating a Moore Republican Women's Wreaths Across America website - and you can be part of it! One of the pages will contain the names of our family members who have served in a branch of the service.

You can download this sheet and complete it as best you can with approximate dates.

Also, when our website is complete, you'll be able to donate wreaths in honor of any loved one.

Please complete this form, bring it to the April lunch and give it to Mariann at the Membership Table. If you are not going to be at the April lunch, call Mariann at (910) 949-3856 and give her the information. Thanks for your help.

An easy way to help the Academy of Moore County

by Kimberly Lindenberger

It's simple - just collect box tops! The Box Top for Education coupons are located on the exterior packaging of the products listed here. You can turn them in at the next MRW luncheon.

The Academy of Moore County redeems our box tops for important items such as books, computers, supplies and more.

This charter school is a public school, but "a school of choice." It is ranked the #18 Best Elementary School in North Carolina, and student test scores are far above the state average, suggesting that most students at this school are performing at or above grade level. It is really worth supporting!

Men's GOP luncheon on March 21 at CCNC

The Moore County Republican Men's Club will welcome guest speaker Mike Causey, NC Insurance Commissioner. For more info and to RSVP, go here.

The case against socialism

If you're looking for a good article that describes the results of socialism as tried around the world, here's one for you from the Daily Signal.

An excerpt:

In "The Road to Serfdom," the Nobel Laureate F. A. Hayek dismissed the utopian dream of "democratic socialism" as "unachievable." Why? Because it is based on the fatal conceit that a galaxy of bureaucrats can collect, analyze, and direct the individual actions of 300 million Americans.
