MAGA victories in Sept. 9 special elections

Celebrate! North Carolina Republican candidates Dan Bishop and Greg Murphy won the state's special elections on Tuesday in the 9th and 3rd Congressional Districts, after continued support from President Donald Trump.

The breathless mainstream media and Democrats called the 9th District election a "bellweather" for the nation in terms of the 2020 election - but when Republican Jim Bishop won in a tight race, it was dismissed as being a red district anyway. For more on the win, go here.

It was an easy victory for Republican candidate Greg Murphy, who won in the special election held on Tuesday in the state's Third Congressional District. Read more about that here.

Congratulations and thanks to all who helped these two Republicans win their seats. In a couple months, they'll need to turn around and start campaigning all over again for the 2020 election - but victory is sweet today!
